The Assam Medical College Hospital wards were so under water and ambulances could not enter the hospital due to water logging in its premises, hospital authorities said.

The DC said the Dibrugarh Town Protection Drain (TDPD) constructed in 1950 was unable to take the load of the rain waters causing the waters to back flow into the city. Water from the tea estates surrounding the city and the National Highway along it were also pouring compounding the water logging problem, he added. (PTI) which could have easily lasted for 40-50 years. As a farmer it hurts to lose even a bush," says Raj Barooah, director of Aideobari Tea Estate in Jorhat.

Assam accounts for over half of India's annual tea output. Barooah, also the chairman of Assam Tea Planters Association, agrees that the weather has become erratic, harsh and unpredictable in the last 10-15 years.

"Rainfall is no more evenly distributed as it used to be when I entered into the tea business two decades ago," he said.

Incidences of pests and plant diseases have also gone up drastically as a result of increase in temperatures.

Tea plantation needs a moderately hot and humid climate and an excess rainfall in the monsoon months from June-September causes damage problems. (PTI)

NSCN-K warns Nagaland enemy agents to face judgments

KOHIMA: NSCN (K) said the "August 28 Pangsha massacre of unarmed NSCN/GPRN members and innocent civilians by Indian Army shall bear testimony before the world for generations to come."

In a release, NSCN (K) ministry of information and publicity (MIP) further warned the 'enemy agents that the worst fate awaits them to face judgments.'

It said the NSCN (K) would leave no stones unturned 'to prosecute them under anti-national act.'

The MIP said, "it was equally abominable that vested Nagas chose to become collaborators and instruments of adversary to further trample upon the Nagas without any conscience."

It further stated that "the price Nagas pay in blood and lives to defend her God gifted sovereign rights can never be suppressed with demonic martial forces, the sacrifices would only inflame the patriotic and nationalist spirit of the Nagas and would never go down in vain."

The MIP maintained that every martyrdom shall replicate itself and Nagas would never be found wanting in men and spirit in the fight to reclaim her birth-right.

Meanwhile, NSCN (K) appealed to every 'conscientious and patriotic Nagas to uphold the sacrifices of both NSCN comrades and civilian Nagas who paid their precious lives in defence of our nation.'

"Let their martyrdom ring throughout the land and endear every Naga to resist the illegal and forceful subjugation of our Nation and people for decades by India", it added, saying "every Naga has a duty to fight for the honour and right of her people," the release said. (UNI)
